WE NOMINATE

Dorothea Wenner Lummis, one of the Princeton Area's most able and understanding teachers, who this week—some nine years after she joined the Borough's school system—was named principal of the Nassau Street School, succeeding Chester R. Stroup, school principal since 1946 and a year hence logical successor to B. Woodhull Davis as the Borough's Superintendent of Schools. The election of the 42-year old Mrs. Lummis, wife of an officer of the First National Bank of Princeton, set off a chain reaction of unqualified approval that ran from former students to grateful parents, from School Board members to her fellow faculty members in the 32-teacher Nassau Street School.

In an era when education has oftentimes dragged its feet in recognizing the significance of individual excellence, the Borough Board Tuesday evening, following its regular May meeting, came forward with a reassuring, straightforward statement. "Mrs. Lummis was chosen," Board President Graham Rohrer reported, "from a field of 25 selected candidates who were recommended by university placement bureaus and professional agencies. Applicants from various sections of the Nation were interviewed and considered for the position." In a 75-minute interview with the Board, Mrs. Lummis, with her record beside her, had proven her qualifications.

Philadelphia-born, and the daughter of a former school board president in the Philadelphia Area, Mrs. Lummis (once she set aside fleeting aspirations for a career as a professional musician) has not wavered in her dedication to the teaching profession. She carried off top honors in the Ben Salem Township (Pa.) H.S., qualified for her bachelor's and master's degrees at West Chester State Teachers and the University of Pennsylvania, respectively, and accepted her first full-time post in Siles, Pa. Prior to her initial Princeton appointment in 1950, she had completed eight years in the Lower Makefield-Pennsbury (Pa.) school district.

Like gifted teachers everywhere, Mrs. Lummis, departmental head of the Borough's Third, Fourth and Fifth Grades, looks upon teaching as a year-round proposition and not as an assignment perfunctorily performed in five-day weeks and over an abbreviated school year. Her day at school runs from about 8:00 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., with many evenings given over to such all-important "extras" as planning special class projects. Most of her summers have been invested in additional, voluntary graduate work, placing emphasis on courses which would make her teaching more meaningful to her third and fourth graders.

Mrs. Lummis, a member of Trinity Episcopal Church, a Princeton Hospital Volunteer and an inveterate traveler whenever circumstances permit, is active in several professional organizations on the national, state and local levels. A life member in the National Education Association, she is currently a member of the Delegate Assembly of the State's Education Association and also an Executive Committee of the Mercer County Association. Possibly most important of all, she is a key member of the Liaison Committee of the Borough Teachers' Association, the link between the teachers and the policy-making Borough Board.

For meriting from a former student (now an aspiring high school freshman) this accolade—"I just liked everything about Mrs. Lummis;" for understanding all that is connoted by the democratic ideal, "The Pursuit of Excellence;" for her contributions to a truly outstanding school system; she is our nominee for

CONFLICT CONTINUES

Over Fund-Raising Policies. Possibly as it should be as the full bloom of May began to blend into a promising June, Princeton's mood was one of contentment with life. The world was at peace, the dollar was generally within reach and the problem of how to plan the family vacation as difficult a task as confronted most households.

Beneath the carefree surface, however, there were mounting indications that the Princeton community faces a steadily-increasing problem in the matter of fund raising. Quiescent now, as one of the few times of year when the pocketbook is not a prime target arrives, the topic is nonetheless receiving steady attention from those who guide the town's largest health and welfare agencies.

This week, the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross took firm exception to the statement issued earlier this spring by the United Community Fund. James A. McFadden Jr., chapter president, bluntly told those attending the organization's annual meeting that "static generated by the Fund during the annual Red Cross drive" prevented the chapter from achieving its quota.

In mid-March, Fund officials urged consolidation of all charitable efforts within the community, charging that the exisiting multiplicity is a source of major annoyance to Princetonians, indicating that such a statement was ill-timed and served as "interference" with the Red Cross goal, Mr. McFadden reiterated the chapter's belief that it cannot join under the terms extended it by the Fund. (See story, page 3.)

Both Short of Goal. In the other camp, Fund officials last week got backing from the Princeton Business Association for their consolidation move. This week, the news the Fund made merely served to underscore the trouble that lies ahead if Princeton does not fully meet the needs of its charitable enterprises.

The Fund undertook the pleasant task of announcing the winners (see box, page 2) of the raffle it staged for door prizes contributed by the Princeton University Store — thus staging a legal lottery with the same merchandise which would have been illegal if offered commercially. But as soon as it completed the drawing, the Fund sadly announced that proceeds netted only $3200— a relatively small bite out of the $15,000 deficit separating it from its 1958-59 goal.

If a solution exists, it is by no means self-evident. Each fall, the hundreds who take an active part in planning and canvassing for the Fund surpass their previous efforts, but each year the requirements of the member agencies move higher.

Now, in attempting to decrease the wholly apparent irritation that individuals and business firms feel as more and more separate requests for contributions are made upon them, the Fund has drawn a charge of ill-timed interference from the Red Cross. Substantiating the latter's claim is the fact that this is the first year in a decade hot it has failed to raise its own steadily-mounting quota.

Out of the welter of words written and spoken on the subject this spring, two facts are clear: any community, particularly one such as Princeton, must meet the justifiable requirements of its charitable agencies. To do so, it must eliminate to whatever degree possible the dual pitfalls of conflict and competition.

'BELT OF POLLUTION'

Extends Through the Township. Princeton Township lies in a state-wide "belt of pollution" which extends all the way into Pennsylvania, according to John Wilford of the Bureau of Public Health Engineering of the State Department of Health.

Mr. Wilford spent Monday morning with Mrs. Marcella Farley, Township Health Officer, inspecting areas in the Township where polluted wells have been found. The two health officials covered the areas around Hillside Avenue, Herrontown Road and Herrontown Circle, Princeton Pike, Heather Lane and the Mount Rose-Rocky Hill Road and Ridgeview heights. They also inspected Our Lady of Princeton on The Great Road.

The pollution belt of which Mr. Wilford spoke is a strip of hard rocks and clays, Mrs. Farley said. Rocks such as diabase, and weathered shale underlie the ares and make the absorption of water very difficult.

In fact, according to Mr. Wilford, fissures in the extremely hard rock can provide channels through which polluted water may flow from great distances. Mrs. Farley said that pollution in Princeton Township might come from as far as 50 miles or more.

"Mr. Wilford saw actual evidence of septic seepage," Mrs. Farley said. "The bright green patches of grass and the black decomposed organic material are unmistakable."

The state official will return several times to the Township to complete his studies, which will be augmented by maps prepared by Mrs. Farley. It is hoped that his report will be completed by the end of the summer. He will then make his recommendations to the state Board of Health which will send them to the Township Board of Health for review.

PERSONALITIES

Richard R. Swinnerton, 5 Murray Place, who in completing 15 years as freshman tennis coach at Princeton has compiled the near-fantastic record of 103 victories against a mere six defeats. On the athletic scene here for 33 years in a variety of capacities, he has coached 11 of his freshman tennis teams to unbeaten seasons.

Miss Martha W. Tribble, 12 Battle Road, one of 30 young ladies from this country who will be presented to international society on July 3 at an International Ball for Debutantes in Versailles, France. Among the hosts at a four-day round of cocktail parties, dinners and dances preceding the affair will be U. S. Ambassador Amory Houghton and Mrs. Houghton, various members of French nobility and the City of Paris.

Dr. Walker Bleakney, 636 Prospect Avenue Extension, a member of the Department of Physics at Princeton University for more than 25 years, who is the recipient of one of the highest honors open to an American scientist with his election to membership in the National Academy of Sciences. Chosen on a basis of his continuing achievements in original research, Dr. Bleakney is widely known for his pioneering work in the areas of fluid dynamics and shock waves, and during World War II was the recipient of an Army-Navy Certificate of Merit for distinguished service.

The Winners

Mrs. R. J. Flood, Ridge Road, Monmouth Junction, won the Bermuda-for-two first prize in the United Community Fund drawing held Saturday. Her luck is worth $462.

Second prize, a Philco Console television set worth $299.95, went to Mrs. R. Kenneth Fairman, Rosedale Road, and third prize, a Zenith Space Command TV worth $299, went to Brick Smalley, Ridge Road, Monmouth Junction.

Miss Eve Miller, 78 Leigh Avenue, won a 17-inch RCA portable television set and Leslie Vivian III, a freshman at Hotchkiss, won a Telectro tape recorder. Leslie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Vivian, 52 Guilck Road.

The United Fund gained from the drawing $3250 toward its deficit of $15,000.

ROUNDUP

Princeton alumni and others who want special license plate numbers (such as initials and class numerals) may be able to acquire them under New Jersey's new system, but it will cost them $10 . . . legislation enacted in Trenton this week permits the Motor Vehicle Division to issue special plates upon request after July 1 if such an "order" is accompanied by the required sum . . . further details of the new tags soon to be mailed to car owners will be found on page 12.

Among the other action taken by the Legislature prior to adjournment was passage of a bill placing the question of Sunday sales up to the voters in each county . . . a referendum will accordingly be held next November, asking whether the public wants stores permitted to sell such merchandise as clothing, furniture, appliances and building supplies seven days a week . . . a law requiring Sunday closing was declared unconstitutional earlier this month because it did not apply uniformly to all 21 counties in the State.

Other recent legislative action affecting Princeton is somewhat akin to a fuseless firecracker: in Washington, the Federal Government appropriated some $150,000 for construction of an armory (presumably near the present National Guard headquarters on River Road) but State funds were required before the Federal grant became a reality . . . and the New Jersey Legislature disbanded without taking action.

Vandalism is generally perpetrated without rhyme or reason. Take the case of depredations this spring in Marquand Park: Police Chief Raymond Mondone reports that "persons unknown have been committing mayhem on trees" . . . not only are branches broken off but holes have been driven in tree trunks with picks . . . police patrols in the area will be increased, particularly after dark.

The National Safety Council has forecast fatal accidents totalling some 260 lives for the upcoming Memorial Day weekend . . . New Jersey will have its share . . . as good a motto as any: "Be there for breakfast Monday morning."

FAST ACTION SAVES HOME

After Gas Stove Explosion. Training he received as an auxiliary fireman enabled George J. Sella, former Princeton University football and basketball star, to save a neighbor's home early Wednesday morning.

Shortly before 6 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. John Eisenhart were in the kitchen of their newly-completed split level at 306 Shadybrook Lane. The pilot light on the gas stove had gone out, and when they sought to light it, an explosion followed.

Because the Eisenharts and their three children had moved in only Tuesday afternoon, the telephone had not yet been connected. With flames rapidly spreading in the kitchen, they ran next door to the Sella home.

While Mrs. Sella telephoned the alarm to police headquarters, Mr. Sella went to the burning dwelling and turned off the gas. Fire Department officials later credited his quick action with very probably saving the entire house from destruction. Mr. Sella, a member of the class of 1950, has been a Princeton resident for several years.

No one in the Eisenhart family was injured, although those investigating the cause of the fire later in the morning called Mrs. Eisenhart's escape "a miracle." Loss from fire and water was extensive.

Having just taken occupancy yesterday, the family had many of its possessions still in cartons, boxes and barrels, a number of which were damaged. Intense heat from the fire blew out the large picture window in the living room.

UNITED FUND CRITICIZED

By Red Cross Chairman. The United Community Fund's campaign to attract new member agencies has seriously interfered with Red Cross fund-raising activities, James A. McFadden Jr., chairman of the Princeton Red Cross chapter, charged last week at the chapter's annual meeting. He blamed the United Fund for the chapter's failure to reach its $47,000 goal in the 1959 fund drive.

"I am not certain if the the Red Cross has been invited out of or into the United Community Fund," Mr. McFadden said. "On the surface it appears that all health and welfare agencies have been invited to join the Princeton United Community Fund, but the terms established by the local United Fund officials are contrary to the requirements of the American National Red Cross, thereby preventing any consideration of these terms on the part of the local chapter."

PLANT IT, WATER IT, WATCH IT GROW: Kindergarteners at Little Brook School have been planting seedlings to soften the bare outlines of the school's brick wall. So far, petunias, chrysanthemums and sweet william have been set out in carefully measured rows. In this picture, three students in Mrs. Russell Mount's class hover over a clump of sweet william. Left to right, Jane Lessing and Mark Perry with Katherine Finnegan holding the watering vase.

The United Fund has appealed to independent organizations to become members in order to eliminate the multiplicity of separate fund drives that confront contributors. According to Mr. McFadden, the Red Cross could join the fund only under these conditions: "1. The Red Cross maintains its identity; 2. United Fund contributors may designate the agency of their choice to receive their contributions; 3. In the event that the United Fund goal is not attained, Red Cross is permitted to conduct a supplementary fund drive."

In other remarks, Mr. McFadden expressed thanks to Mrs. Carl Sjostrom, chairman of volunteers, and Archie Lummis, treasurer, for their efforts in the campaign. Mrs. Sjostrom announced that a volunteer recognition meeting will be held in September.

Elected as officers for the coming year were Mr. McFadden, chairman; Jerald S. Hanks, first vice-chairman; Mrs. Sjostrom, second vice-chairman; Mrs. Herrymon Maurer, secretary; Mr. Lummis, treasurer; Joseph Catelli, assistant treasurer; and Paul Alford, Miss Grace Whiteman, Edward Schulz, Warren P. Elmer Jr. and Roy Vogt, members of the Board of Directors.

IN MEMORIAM

War Dead to Be Honored. In celebration of Memorial Day, Princeton residents will line Nassau Street to watch the annual parade which begins this year at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Chief of Police Raymond Mondone, Parade Marshal Donald W. Griffin and guests will be in the vanguard, followed by the Army R.O.T.C. Mounted Artillery Unit, the Fort Dix Army Band and Navy and Air Force R.O.T.C. Units. American Legion units and Colors from each of the Fire Companies will follow.

Then, in order, will march the Boy and Cub Scouts, the Princeton High School Band, Girl Scouts and Brownies. The Rescue Squad Truck and First Aid Unit Ambulance will follow behind the foot units. Bringing up the rear will be four tanks and two jeeps of Company D, 2nd Medium Tank Battalion, 53rd Armored Division, National Guard of New Jersey.

The marchers will proceed along Nassau Street to the Battle Monument where Norman R. Fowler, commander of Princeton Post 76, American Legion, will give a welcoming address. Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen will conduct religious services and Colonel J. P. Barney, 61 Westcott Road and Ernest F. Drake, 23 William Street, will place the Memorial Wreath. Both are veterans of World War I.

Before the parade, the American Legion will hold religious observances at Princeton and St. Paul's cemeteries. Charles W. Robinson Post 218 will conduct the services at Princeton Cemetery and Post 76 at St. Paul's. Both services will be held at 9.30 a.m.

Almost 600 veterans' graves in the Princeton area have been decorated by members of Post 76 in preparation for Memorial Day. In Princeton Cemetery, where over 400 veterans lie, the Legion post also decorating the graves of President Grover Cleveland, Aaron Burr, signers of the Declaration of Independence, Confederate veterans and American citizens who served in Allied armies. There are 88 veterans of all wars in St. Paul's Cemetery and one veteran of the Civil War in Trinity Churchyard.

Legionnaires also marked the graves of two Revolutionary War veterans and One Civil War veteran in the Friends' Meeting House Cemetery on Quaker Road, and the graves of two Civil War veterans in Cedar Grove Cemetery off Drake's Corner Road. Battlefield flags have been set out at the Cannon-Ball monument and the Circular slab monument in Princeton Battlefield Park.

In West Windsor, veterans' graves in Princeton Baptist churchyard and the Dutch Neck Presbyterian churchyard were also marked. In past years, Legionnaires have decorated the graves of 14 Revolutionary War veterans in the Sara Jewell estate near the Penns Neck traffic circle. This year, however, the growth of underbrush was so heavy that the project was abandoned.

Those who participated in the decorating were Thomas Kinnely, Norman Fowler, Elwood A. Blydenburg, Henry J. Frank, Eric H. Jungberg and James E. Whitlow. Robert C. Schmidt, Immediate Past Commander of Post 76, is chairman of the committee that has planned the Memorial Day activities.

SIX TEACHERS NAMED

To Borough Schools. The appointment of six new teachers to Princeton Borough Schools were approved at Tuesday's meeting of the Board of Education. This brings the total number of new teachers appointed for the school year 1959-60 to 17.

Five of the new teachers will be on the staff of Princeton High School. They are: Paul E. Lepard, who will teach science; Miss Shirley Ann Love, social studies; Thomas Seraydarian, guidance; John H. McElroy and Mrs. Patricia Beany, mathematics. Mrs. Beany is a former Princeton school teacher who is returning after a year's absence. The appointment of Mr. Seraydarian was described by Schools Superintendent Woodhull Davis as the first step in a projected expansion of the guidance program in the Borough schools.

The sixth new teacher named at Tuesday's meeting was Miss Christiane Belot, who will teach French at Nassau Street School. Miss Belot, who comes from Paris, will be in Princeton for three years as an exchange teacher.

Mrs. Dorothea Lummis, who was named principal of Nassau Street School at the meeting, was singled out for special praise by both Superintendent Davis and Graham Rohrer, school board president. (For further information on Mrs. Lummis' appointment, see cover story.) "As superintendent, I feel that Mrs. Lummis outdistances anybody that we might find," said Mr. Davis. Mr. Rohrer, after pointing out that about 25 candidates from throughout the country had been considered before the final decision was made, stated: "We feel that Mrs. Lummis can't be beaten as a candidate for this position."

Garden Spot. A student plan for decoration of the inner court of the high school with tulips, azaleas, rhododendrons and evergreens was approved by the board and Superintendent Davis was authorized to provide the students with funds for supplies for the work. The board also authorized the expenditure of school funds for rental of reproductions of Good wine isn't humid, and neither is good weather, but the weather can't be enclosed in a cask to keep out humidity. After a cooler, drier spell earlier in the week, things began to turn damp again. Earlier than usual, too.

The forecast through Sunday calls for temperatures several degrees above the normal of 64 for late spring. No real rain in sight, although a shower or two may come along to break the unseasonal heat.

POOR LITTLE RICH GIRL: Barbara Rush finds her family's wealth is an obstacle to her romance with Paul Newman in "The Young Philadelphians," beginning Sunday at the Playhouse.

News Of The THEATRES

PLAYERS SEASON TO END

With Saturday Performance. One of the most successful seasons the Community Players have known in their quarter-century-plus on the Princeton scene will come to an end Saturday night at the Alexander Street Playmill. The current production, an emotion-packed, old-fashioned melodrama titled "The Child Stealer," will be given its final performance at 8:30.

Public appreciation accorded this presentation has resulted in five successive sell-outs. All tickets for last weekend's two shows were gone five days in advance and when announcement of the final, extra performance for this Saturday was made, the S.R.O. sign went out in matter of hours.

Melodrama in May with music (and beer) is a tradition the Players can establish with the greatest of ease, now that 1958's "Belle the Typewriter Girl" and "The Child Stealer" have been so happily received. Ease, that is from point of view of planning; the long and sometimes late hours of rehearsing and off-stage technical activity are hardly achieved by mere decision to stage another rip-roaring melderdrammer.

Performances of "Under Milkwood" last winter and of the Giotto Fresoes in December were others which brought more people to the Playmill than the Players could accommodate at a given time. Plans for the 1959-60 season are already being made, for the first time under the guidance of a salaried executive director. Indications are clear that Princeton will welcome more of the Players at their best and that the foresighted will equip themselves with tickets well in advance.

TICKETS GOING FAST

For Stickney Show. Tickets for the June 12 presentation of "A Lovely Light," starring Dorothy Stickney, are going fast, it was reported this week by Dana Productions, sponsoring group. The show will be presented for one night only at McCarter Theatre.

"A Lovely Light" is a dramatic portrait of the late Pulitzer Prize-winning poetess, Edna St. Vincent Millay. It is being directed by Miss Stickney's husband, Howard Lindsay. Tickets may be purchased at the University Store or by mail from Dana Productions, Box 3, Princeton.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Warlock (May 27-30) has nothing to do with male witches; it is the name of a Western town which is the site of the picture. Starring Richard Widmark, Henry Fonda, Anthony Quinn, Dorothy Malone and Delores Michaels and produced in CinemaScope and DeLuxe Color, this is undoubtedly one of the biggest, most expensive Western films ever produced. It is a fast-paced, capably acted run-through of a cliche-ridden script that sounds as if it were commissioned after all the other expenses were met.

The Bad Guys, led by Tom Drake, terrorize the town. After a few reels of this, the Warlockians hire a professional gunman, Fonda, to rid the town of the Bad Guys. But one of the Bad Guys, Widmark, turns out to be a Good Guy in disguise. He quits the gang and takes up the cause of Law and Order against both Fonda and the Bad Guys. Through it all, the film's women, notably Miss Malone, switch their allegiances among the antagonists with Nasserian regularity.

The Young Philadelphians (May 31-June 6) is a better than average black-and-white film featuring the highly talented Paul Newman. It is, in fact, only the acting of Newman and co-star Barbara Rush that lifts this picture out of mediocrity, for the plot, loosely adapted from Richard Powell's novel, "The Philadelphian," is cast in the familiar Horatio-Alger-plus-sex mold.

The early scenes are flashbacks to 1924 which provide a sort of prologue. Diane Brewster, poor but sexy, weds the scion of a Main Line society family, who subsequently deserts her. After his departure, Miss Brewster has a child, fathered by an old, great and good friend, Brian Keith. This established, we switch to the present and find the son, Newman, poor but sexy, working for Keith's contracting firm and thinking Keith is just a friend of his mother's. The lad, you see, has been brought up with the Main Line society name.

When Newman falls in love with Miss Rush, daughter of a wealthy lawyer, all but the slowest members of the audience should be able to trace the ironic parallels. The film is a Warner Brothers release, directed by Vincent Sherman and written by James Gunn.

THE GARDEN

Aparajito (May 27-30) is the second segment of the projected filmic trilogy that began with the excellent "Father Panchali." The cast is essentially the same as that of "Father," and Director Satyajit Ray has again elicited a moving and important portrait of the lives and aspirations of modern Indians. The picture was produced in India with an entirely Indian cast. The slice-of-life technique leads to some slow stretches from time to time, but its offsetting advantages make it well worth waiting through these.

This is not escape fare; it is simply one of the best movies of the generation. Recommended.

A Place in the Sun (June 1.) based on Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy," is this week's entry in the Garden's Monday re-run series. Directed by Academy Award winner George Stevens and starring youthful and callow versions of Elizabeth Taylor, Montgomery Clift and Shelley Winters, this fine picture is tautly acted and well-written. Its effect for some, however, may be marred by the implausibility of Miss Taylor's giving up everything to be with the rather unimposing Mr. Clift. Recommended.

Love Is My Profession (June 2-6) should provide a triumphant return at the Garden for Brigitte Bardot and, while still hardly a memorable effort, it is the best picture she has made. The story, suggested by a George Simenon novel, is concerned with sex—honest sex, dishonest sex, purchased sex, clinical sex. This information is given to indicate you just might want to leave the kiddies with a babysitter, but the film avoids scurdidness with pouting, Gallic good humor. For art lovers, constant and near-complete scenic views of Mlle. Bardot's person are included.

The plot should tax no one's powers of concentration. Brigitte, a part-time prostitute, is accused of assault and battery. Jean Gabin, a top lawyer, agrees to defend her in return for those little concessions she is so well-equipped to yield. She goes along with the plan, but her heart, unlike the rest of her, belongs to a moody young medical student. The reader should be able to fill in the resulting complications in 25 words or less.

Through it all, the acting is competent and Claude Autant has done a nicely paced job of direction. "Love Is My Profession" is in French with English titles. Students of French, incidentally, may be amused to learn that the original title was "En Cas de Malheur."

MUSIC CIRCUS TO OPEN

First Show Starts Saturday. "Bells Are Ringing," first show of this season at St. John Terrell's Music Circus, Lambertville, will begin its four-week run this Saturday. The show will star Billie Worth and Alan Gilbert.

A musical comedy which recently completed a two-and-a-half year run on Broadway, "Bells Are Ringing" has book and lyrics by Betty Comden and Adolph Green and music by Jule Styne. Hit songs from the show include "The Party's Over" and "Just in Time."

Donald Burr will be director of the Music Circus production, which will have sets designed by Gordon Micunis and costumes by Bernie Joy. Max Meth will conduct the Music Circus orchestra.

The box office is open daily from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Further information on tickets may be obtained by writing the Music Circus or calling EXport 7-1500.

"TIGER AT THE GATES"

At Bucks County Playhouse. "Tiger at The Gates," the Jean Giraudoux play translated by Christopher Fry, will open Monday at the Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, Pa. The production will run through June 13.

The play, based on the story of the Trojan War, will star Hurd Hatfield as Hector. Others in the cast will be Frances Reid as Andromache, Richard Durham as Ulysses and Louise Fletcher as Helen of Troy.

"Tiger At the Gates" was first produced in London and then brought to New York. It is a winner of the Critics' Circle Award. Aaron Frankel will direct the Bucks County Playhouse presentation.

STRAWS IN THE WIND

Breezy Hats. At Clayton's hat bar this late spring, you'll find straws as breezy as a day on the bay. There's a witch's peak of white straw covered all over with pieces of blue straw fringe. A cloche of thick white straw has orange pom-poms dangling from its rounded top, and a bucket made out of light brown, yellow or red straw, has straw-paper ribbon tied around its crown.

A witching white straw is covered with big black fishnet which is, in turn, covered with pearl shells, sequins, glittering discs and shiny plastic flowers. Peach straw, faintly iridescent, has four-inch fringe all around.

Plain brown straw can be enlivened with a matching hat-band and bandanna. Wear the bandanna over ears and under chin and set the banded hat on top. Several colors to choose from.

Besides these wanton mermaids, there are some quiet types, like the cloche made of rows of white grosgrain ribbons or the boater like the one grandma used to wear. A dressed-up white straw has a band of white lace for church.

In the locker room, bathing suits by Jantzen and Ceeb hang ready for the swim. Jantzen has been knitting all winter and the results are now visible in black, white and multicolor.

The suits are absolutely plain black or white knit; maillots, you'll probably call them. Another is navy blue with a three-inch band of red and white stripe around each leg and armhole. ("Armhole" because many of these suits have wide straps, about two inches or so.)

Raised blue and green stripes, rather like fine chenille, go up and down and around the white background of one suit. Deep, almost autumnal shades of brown, dull gold, wine and olive have been used in multi-width stripes on a suit by Ceeb of Miami.

Fuschia and shocking pink stripes make another knit, this one with a fringed cuff around the top. A matching jacket is sleeveless, straight hanging, with fringe to match the suit.

If you prefer woven to knit suits, Clayton's has a chintz one with boy shorts. It's made of a print whose bright blue flowers spread across the middle and top, with the shorts left white.

With your suit wear Jantzen's Sandals, either in white terry or red plaid. They are thong sandals.

Your beach towel might be the deeply fringed white one with blue dolphins, mermaids and shells, or the plaid of black, blue, orange and yellow or the blue with squares outlined in silver.

A Smoker's Ashtray. Rex Goreleigh, Princeton artist who has been known to smoke a pipe himself, has designed a real smoker's ashtray and we suggest it as a gift for the family smoker on Father's Day.

Mr. Goreleigh makes the ash trays himself out of clay, glazes and fires them and offers them from $5 up. They are very large and designed with the modern room in mind. The form is free, each ash-tray being about ten inches long at its longest point. Some are roughly triangular, others roughly figure-eight, each one different from the other. All are about two inches deep.

One — and we suspect it's Mr. Goreleigh's favorite — has been designed especially for pipe-smokers, with two shaped "wells" at the base to hold two favorite pipes. Other ash-trays are notched for cigarettes with plenty of length in each notch because the trays are about two inches thick. Another ash tray is a combination, with notches for cigarettes and a couple of wells for pipes.

You may choose your colors so that the ashtray will harmonize with your room, but Mr. Goreleigh has some ready-made ones which might suit your taste. They are mottled, some of them almost like mosaics, others subtler and more diffuse in color. One has been left unglazed on the outside, like a flower-pot.

If you'd like an ash-tray to your order, allow about a week.

Other products of the Goreleigh studio include several small accessory pieces, like little glazed pitchers with small handle and narrow lip, or cylindrical vases which might be used as lamp bases. There are beer mugs, too, and some curious vases shaped rather like bee-hives. Any of these pieces, or others, can be made to your order, either coiled, turned on the wheel or done from a mold.

As a summer offering, Mr. Goreleigh is doing water-colors and portraits in oils or pastels, at about half of his usual price. He suggests that summer va-

Paint In Two Colors

In order to paint in two colors at the same time, you need not a brush in each hand, but a sprayer full of the paint called Multakolor.

With this paint, you can do walls in a kind of spatter-paint, marble or tweed effect, depending on the color combinations you choose. "Bamboo", for example, is a marbelized mixture of tan, black and white that looks rather like finely crushed stone. "Flamingo," on the other hand, is a bright coral with white and grey splashes that make it look like spatter-painting.

"Pink Blossom" has a fainter touch of its fleck colors than the rest; its grey overtones are very delicate and its basic pink is quite light. "New Marble" is a stirring of black and white chips, and "Charcoal" is the same, only in reverse. There are also "Midas Touch" combinations in which gold is added to the other shades.

You apply Multakolor with spray gun or roller and you buy it from Urken's on Witherspoon Street in quart jars for $2.49. Fourteen combinations to choose from, all fast-drying and impervious to dirt and children.

Report from THE MAYOR

THE MAYOR'S REPORT

Conference Center. More and more, Princeton is becoming a center for statewide meetings and conferences of a growing list of organizations.

Last week again the Mayor was privileged to spread the welcome mat for several of them: on Monday the New Jersey Chapter of the American Society for Public Administration met here with John Macy of Wesleyan University as their speaker; on Tuesday, several hundred representatives of the New Jersey Federation of Colored Women's Clubs toured Princeton and overflowed the new YM-YWCA for an important luncheon meeting; on Wednesday, the New Jersey Welfare Council held its annual meeting here, with Rutgers University's new President, Mason Gross, as principal speaker. One evidence of Princeton's crowded meeting calender: only four nights in 1959 when the Mayor's calendar was clear with as many as four or five meetings on a single evening on the other dates.

June Is Bustin' Out. Probably no month in Princeton has more crowded days than June—with commencement exercises in all the local educational institutions and more than the normal number of weddings and other festive occasions to add interest to the schedule. One serious note: early June is also the traditional time for the tax bills for the second half of the year to be mailed to local taxpayers!

More on Parking. One of the high priority items in Francis Dodd McHugh's planning studies must be the Borough's parking problem. Last week, as his studies progressed on this subject, Mr. McHugh was able to send Borough officials a strongly-worded justification of the Witherspoon municipal parking area as a supporting facility for the proposed urban renewal project.

In a report to the Housing Authority, the planning consultant reports on parking habits in downtown areas, analyzes the requirements and the available spaces, and concludes that the Witherspoon lot's full cost should be claimed as a local non-cash grant-in-aid to serve the proposed redevelopment. Relating to the growing resistance of the average motorist to walking more than 300 feet on business errands, Mr. McHugh comments that "The motorist is both literally and figuratively 'in the driver's seat'."

Two Parades. Borough police will have a double workout on Saturday in handling traffic for two Memorial Day parades. In the morning, the American Legion will sponsor its traditional march up Nassau Street to the ceremonies at the Battle Monument. In the early afternoon, the Shriners of Khufu Temple will give Princeton residents the opportunity to enjoy a parade "doubleheader."

Five More Thursdays. The regular weekly "Tell it to the Mayor!" sessions will be held at Borough Hall from 7 to 10 p.m. again this Thursday and on each of the four Thursdays in June. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings. Sometimes a quick question can be answered by telephone. The number is WAlnut 4-3118.

It's New To Us

cation is a good time to do a child's portrait, and that a pair of newly-weds might like a watercolor of their new house as a wedding present.

All these are available through Mr. Gerseleigh at his Studio-on-the-Canal, Lower Alexander Street, WA 4-2889.

Hattie and Antiques. The jewelry of Hattie Carnegie and the antiques of — well, you know how it is with antiques — are now at 18th Century Bouquet on State Road.

Hattie's contributions consist of a good bracelet and earrings made of "bamboo", a slim gold leaf, curving and charming; a wide bracelet in gold, made of elongated "S's" laid side by side and a little gold purse on the end of a key ring, the purse being a two-inch miniature of an old-fashioned snap purse. This one opens on a hinged spring like a scallop. Keep your parking pennies inside.

Antiques are for fireplace and study corner. There are two brass firebuckets, (one hammered, the other smooth) and a fine brass fender, restrained in design and not too large.

The shop has also acquired a sturdy walnut desk about 22 inches wide with a slant top which lifts up like a school desk, and a tier of drawers on the side of the desk instead of in front. Wonderful for a special corner. There's also a wash-stand with an unusual brown marble top.

Linen blouses at 18th Century come in pink, blue, olive, yellow and natural with wide collared necklines just waiting to frame a necklace. (The neckline is wide, not the collar.) Matching or mated shorts.

To make summer life easier, the shop has for you a two-decker serving cart with black metal trays and brass-finished legs. Top tray has a brass gallery. The whole thing folds up like a folding chair and can be hidden behind any door because it's only about six inches wide, folded. You'll use it to make winter life easier, too. Costs $19.95.

The raison d'etre of the shop, so to speak, is the collection of dried flower arrangements and for summer, you'll find small bouquets arranged in miniature garden baskets or in two-inch alabaster urns. But the summer bit we like best is the bright silk screen print of a raffish looking bird flying over a super-highway. He's a "Turnpike," of course.

Correction. Through an error in last week's column, a rosebud print dress at Rosette Pennington was priced at $5. The correct price is $15.

Oh, That Lint!

The new uniforms for the Princeton High School Band will be made of a snappy dark blue wool, but Mrs. Thelma Young, member of the Princeton Board of Education, is quite apprehensive about it.

Two swatches of material, the dark blue and a lighter powder blue, were submitted to the board for approval at its meeting this Tuesday. Informed that the darker blue was the choice of a student and faculty committee, the board members approved it without hesitation — all but Mrs. Young.

"I wouldn't dream of going against everybody else," she said, looking ruefully at the swatch of material, "but I certainly hate to think of all the lint this will pick up!"

famous paintings, to be hung on the walls of Borough schools.

The board also decided to advertise for bids for reconstruction of the six tennis courts. Contractors will be asked to submit their bids by June 16 and final decision will be made by the board at its next meeting, scheduled for June 23.

There will be no meetings of the board during the Summer. Instead, there will be two meetings in September, one on September 8 and one on September 29. After that, the board will go back to its usual meeting date of the fourth Tuesday in each month.

RESEARCH BOARD CREATED

For Princeton University. A new nine-member Research Board has been created to shape policy in the acceptance and administration of research grants and contracts throughout Princeton University, it was announced this week by Dr. Robert F. Goheen, president. Dr. Henry DeWolf Smyth, Joseph Henry, Professor of Physics at Princeton and a former member of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, will be chairman. He will have the rank of dean.

RESEARCH DIRECTOR: Dr. Henry DeWolf Smyth, professor of physics at Princeton University, will be chairman of the university's newly-created Research Board.

At the same time, Dr. Goheen said, an Office of Research Administration has been established. Raymond J. Woodrow, assistant treasurer of the university, will serve as director of the Office of Research Administration and also as executive officer of the new Research Board. The board, which will replace the 12-year-old Committee on Project Research and Inventions, will begin operations with the opening of the fiscal year on July 1.

Members of the faculty from all divisions of the university will be included on the Research Board. Dr. Goheen said that this "will reflect the belief of the Princeton University faculty that any sizable research program affects the whole university and therefore its desirability should be judged by a group representing the humanities and the social sciences as well as the departments of science and engineering."

Faculty members serving on the board, in addition to Dr. Smyth, will be: Dr. Carlos H. Baker, Woodrow Wilson Professor of Literature; Dean Joseph C. Elgin of the School of Engineering; Dr. Donald F. Hornig, chairman of the Department of Chemistry; Dr. Richard A. Lester, Green Professor of Economics; Dr. Arthur K. Parpart, Moffett Professor of Biology and chairman of the Department of Biology, and Dr. Joseph R. Strayer, Dayton-Stockton Professor of History and chairman of the Department of History.

Administrative representatives on the board will be Mr. Woodrow and Ricardo A. Mestres, financial vice president and treasurer of the university. The size of the job they are undertaking is indicated by the fact that during 1957-58 the university carried forward 168 sponsored research projects, at a cost of nearly $15 million. In addition, these projects involved more than 1100 persons.

EILEEN BAKER ELECTED

At Miss Fine's School. Eileen Baker has been elected president of the Student Government at Miss Fine's School. Joan Yeaton will serve as secretary. Named to the Student Council were Nancy Davis and Louise Scheide, Class 12; Julie Fulper and Anne Tucker Ramus, Class 11; Paula Cook and Kate Sayen, Class 10, and Virginia Elmer and Ann Updike, Class 9.

Other new officers are Catherine Otis, president; Fiona Morgan, treasurer, and Lucinda Brown, secretary, social service committee; Susan Valentine, president, and Julie Anne Cornforth, secretary, dramatics club; Sally Hagen, president, and Sandra Sidford, secretary, athletic association.

Also, Amanda Maugham, president, and Anne Tucker Ramus, secretary, glee club; Liza Guttman, editor-in-chief of "Link"; Elise Bruml, editor-in-chief of "Inkling"; Pauline Mills, presi-

Why Developmental Reading?

Today almost everyone reads, but surprisingly few people read as well as they should. With the volume of reading assigned and the wide diversity of subject material, it is often a cumbersome task for the average reader to complete his requirements. A person cannot be successful in any field of reading unless he is able to interpret printed matter quickly and easily.

The course offered by Readwell Co. is not remedial but developmental and is designed especially for the average-to-good reader to help him meet the increasing demands placed upon him.

In our program the average reader can improve his comprehension, vocabulary and concentration, at the same time, in many cases, increase his reading rate up to 100%.

AFTER THE BALL IS OVER, there's still plenty of time for fun if you're a Princeton High senior on Prom night. This quartet of young people went to the Nassau Inn Friday after the Prom as guests of the Parent-Teacher Association. Each year for the past six, the PTA has invited seniors to "Breakfast at the Nass," a party-after-the-party, with hamburgers, French fried potatoes, soft drinks and entertainment. Left to right, Nelsen Coughlan, Anne Schmidt, Louise McDonough, Chris Schwabe. (Town Topics Photo by William S. Johnson) dent of Class 12; Polly Busselle, president of Class 11; Jane Cormack, president of Class 10, and Sally Campbell, president of Class 9. In the Middle School Student Council elections, Cary Smith was elected president and Priscilla Potter was named secretary.

MAYOR GURISIC CITED

"Outstanding Young Democrat." Mayor Grace Gurisic of Rocky Hill, president of the Somerset County Young Democrats, was cited as New Jersey's Outstanding Young Democrat at the state convention of the Young Democratic Club held this week in Atlantic City. Miss Gurisic was recently given first honorable mention as the Nation's Outstanding Young Democrat at the national convention of Young Democratic Clubs held in Miami.

The awards are given in recognition of unselfish effort and outstanding achievement by a young democrat on behalf of the Democratic Party. The New Jersey Young Democratic Club received the nation-wide Outstanding Club Award.

Miss Gurisic, who is Freeholder candidate in Somerset County, led the Somerset delegation, and served as Credential Chairman of the convention. Mrs. Blanche Del Casle and Mrs. Barbara Esser of Franklin Township were alternate delegates.

MORE FRENCH PLANNED

In Elementary Grades. The Township Board of Education has voted to make the study of French a regular part of the elementary curriculum in grades 3 through 6 and to offer the language as an elective in grades 7 and 8. The action followed an expression of support by the board for the manner in which the experimental elementary French program was conducted this year.

The elementary school French program is chiefly concerned with conversational aspects of the language. Reading, writing and grammar will be introduced in the seventh and eighth grades.

A. Robert Trudel, chairman of the construction committee, told the board that hopes for completion of the new Johnson Park and Riverside schools by September 1 seem dim. The latest construction delay stems from a strike at the plant of one of the sub-contractors.

Thirteen new teachers were appointed for next year. Among them are Mrs. Edith Moss of Princeton, who has served as a substitute teacher in Borough and Township schools for two years; Mrs. Sylvia Fields, who inaugurated the elementary French program in the Borough, and John Counts, who is currently serving as a replacement teacher at Valley Road School.

BREAKFAST AT THE NASS

Students Attend Party. A record crowd of 320 students attended the "Breakfast at the Nass" post-prom party held Friday night and early Saturday morning at the Nassau Inn. The party, held each year for the past six years, is given for Princeton High School seniors by the Princeton High School P.T.A. following the Senior Prom.

Twelve civic organizations and parent-teacher associations from all high school sending districts gave financial support and 58 Princeton merchants donated the door prizes that were given during the breakfast hour.

The guests arrived at midnight, danced to Roger Morgan's orchestra, ate sandwiches and then sat down to breakfast at 2:30 a.m. The party came to a close after breakfast.

Mrs. Peter Lauck III was chairman of the party, assisted by Mrs. Donald O. North, Mrs. Raymond Bowers, Mrs. Donald Wilber, Mrs. John A. Wheeler, Mrs. Otto Rosner, Mrs. W. B. Mather, Mrs. F. H. Nicoll. The student committee consisted of Arnold Skar, Mary Barksdale, Ruth Rodenberger, Marjorie Rosner, David Baldwin and Frank Barlow.

BILLS APPROVED

For Trenton Transit Purchase. Two bills giving Trenton or Mercer County the right to purchase and operate the Trenton Transit bus system were approved by the State Legislature on Monday, just before the Summer recess. The bills were proposed by Senator Sido Ridolfi, who said that he has received information that Trenton Transit will cease operations the end of June.

It is not expected that either Trenton or Mercer County will actually operate the buses. The bills provide that, after purchase, the buses may be leased to a private transit firm. This would eliminate more than $125,000 in taxes.

Included in the bills is a provision that they will expire in a year if not acted upon. In addition, the bills state that the purchase privilege can only be used in areas where there is definite reason to believe that bus service would otherwise be discontinued.

SPEEDER FINED

In Borough Court. Richard D. Lawton, 40, of 164 Nassau Street, was fined $35 in Borough Court Monday night for speeding. Magistrate Theodore T. Toms Jr. also fined Robert Burnham, 157 Witherspoon Street, $20 for obstructing traffic.

Also, J. L. Benedict, 28, Cherry Valley Road, $15 for an unregistered vehicle, and Mildred M. Silverman, 46, Cherry Hill Road, $15 for failure to comply with an officer's signal.

BIRTH LIST

Hospital Has 17 Arrivals. Seventeen children, including 10 girls, were born to Princeton area parents at Princeton Hospital last week. Parents of daughters include Mr. and Mrs. John Staples, 100 Stockton Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hager, 89 East Broad Street, Hopewell, May 18;

A service will take place Sunday at the Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Church at 11. At 3 there will be a beauty and talent contest at the Temple.

James Burton is parade marshall, Mrs. Edith Burton is Illustrious Commandress of Khufu Court No. 118, the Shriners auxiliary. NEW PLATES ON WAY

Distribution Begins Monday. New Jersey's first entirely new license plates in seven years will start arriving in the mail next week. Distribution is slated to begin Monday, with 10,000 mailed each day. Even at that rate, it will take more than a year for the state's 2,300,000 registered vehicles to be equipped with new tags.

The schedule adopted by the Division of Motor Vehicles calls for plates to be mailed to individual motorists four months after the date of registration. Under this system, owners who registered their cars last February will be the first to receive their new plates; those who registered their cars in March will get new plates in July, and so on. The process will not end until May, 1960.

Car owners should have a good time banging up their old plates after the new ones arrive. They'll be pleasing the Motor Vehicle Division when they do, since the Division has asked that old plates be battered with a hammer or otherwise bent so that they will no longer be usable. This is to prevent old plates finding their way onto stolen cars.

The division has another request, too, one that will benefit the car owner himself. Every owner is asked to make sure that the Division has his correct address on file. This should be the address at which he receives his mail, since the plates will be mailed. To help the motorist, the Division has placed change of address cards at service stations, police stations and industries employing more than 600 persons. Failure to notify the Division of change of address or name, incidentally, is a violation of the state's traffic regulations.

New Colors. The new plates will have a black background with straw-colored numbers. This is eliminating the Princeton black and orange of the present plates. Designed to last five years, they will be dateless, like some of the later current plates. The plates will have the initials "N.J." at the top, three letters, a dash and three numbers across the middle, and the motto "Garden State" at the bottom.

No longer will New Jerseyans he able to identify the county origin of their plates. All plates will be mailed out in strict alphabetical sequence, and since they will go all over the State, there will be no possible way of allocating them according to counties.

So far, only one set of letters has been reserved. This is the "M.D." series, which will be saved for doctors. The problems of low-number "courtesy plates" and special letter combinations for various organizations are still to be solved. The Division has suggested a fee of $5 or $10 for courtesy plates, but no decision has been made as yet.

All plates will be mailed free

SCHOLARSHIP AWARDED

By Princeton Smith Club. A one-year scholarship to Smith College has been awarded by the Princeton Smith Club to Miss Elizabeth Grove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grove of 730 Riverside Avenue, Trenton. Funds for the club's scholarship program are raised through its annual auction each January.

Miss Grove's award was announced at a meeting of the Smith Club held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Rene Leon, Drake's Corner Road. A student at Trenton Central High School, Miss Grove received the DAR Medal for Good Citizenship. She has been active in the school's dramatic workshop and is on the staff of the creative writing magazine, "Laureate."

DOWN IN THE DEPTHS: Few events in recent years have captured the conversation of baseball fans so thoroughly as the New York Yankees' ignominious slide to the American League cellar this spring. Sam Sculerati (in car) thinks the Yankees are the same as ever; it's just that the rest of the league is finally improving. According to Joe Perone, the Bombers "just want to spot the rest of the league a few games to make it more interesting." For other views, see below. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: What do you think is wrong with the Yankees, and where do you hope they will finish?

Where asked: Around town.

Elmer H. Leigh, The Great Road, carpenter: I'm not a Yankee fan, but I still can't help feeling that they're not going to finish as low as they are now. They've got too good a team. I don't think anybody really knows exactly what's wrong with them at the present time. I'd like to see them finish down the line a little, though — mainly because they've always been a money team, able to buy the best players.

Mrs. Francis Comstock, Lafayette Road: I follow the Yankees very closely. The reason for their bad showing this year is traceable to the fact that they didn't buy any new players last year. Maybe they thought they were too good. I don't think they'll win the pennant, and I don't really want them to win it.

Paul Jones, 220-A Harrison Street, instructor in Princeton Religion Department: The trouble so far this season has been overconfidence. I hope they finish in eighth place, but I doubt that they will. I've been a Pirate fan for 20 years and I always favor the underdog. I think it would be a good thing for baseball if the American League's first place team changed this season.

Edward J. Donovan, 86 Olden Avenue, Princeton University varsity baseball coach: The Yanks just aren't getting the breaks, and the other teams are no longer afraid of them. They haven't been winning those close, 9th inning games. If they're good enough to win, I'd like to see them win, but I don't expect them to. Cleveland won't lose that many games.

Mrs. Clarence Johnson, Rosedale Road, housewife: There is a definite division of opinion on the Yankees in our family. My husband is very anti-Yankee, but I'm for them. I think they're losing now to play it cagey, trying to make the league more interesting. Along about July they'll really begin to win. I hope they finish in first place, but my husband surely doesn't!

Will Goodwyn, 86 Leigh Avenue, housekeeper: I'd rather see someone else win, because the Yanks have been in first place for so long. Why they're losing is hard to understand, but I feel that they are still a basically strong team.

Mrs. Russell E. Ashley, Alta Vista Drive, housewife: I can't really tell why the Yanks are losing, but I can say that I'd like to see them beaten. They've won too much in the past; I'd like to see someone else win for a change.

Joe Perone, 2 Maple Terrace, postal employee: Nothing's wrong with them. They just want to spot the rest of the league a few games to make it more interesting. They were being chastised for running away with the league last year. They'll come from behind, just as they did last year in the World Series.

Mrs. Gertrude Banks, 1 Margerum Court, stewardess: They are too overconfident. I'd like to see them win, and I think they have a real team. They're really good ball players and I'm sure they'll come out on top.

Sam Sculerati, 108 Linden Lane, taxi owner: Nothing's wrong — the other teams just took all these years to catch up with them. I hope they end up right where they are — last — for their own good. And I'm a Yankee fan. They've been too cocky.

Richard Davis, 16 Linden Lane, Princeton graduate student: I think they've been losing partly because of the psychological reaction to too much success. Success becomes boring after a while: they have no motivation to do anything about winning. This has a snowball effect on the entire team. I hope they finish in last place, since they've had a monopoly on winning for too long.

Remember When?

Franklin Delano Roosevelt had not yet been nominated for a third term and Dunkirk was just another name on the map. It was mid-May, 1940, and the Yankees were in the cellar.

Ford was still turning out Model T's, bathtub gin was a household word and the stock market crash was four years away. It was September, 1925, and the Yankees finished seventh.

This week, the Yanks were last again—for the first time in 19 years. Would they finish seventh—or could they stage a "miracle drive" that would bring another pennant. Princetonians had all kinds of answers—and hopes.

HOW DO YOUR CHILDREN GROW? The rate and progress of a child's growth and development are subjects of concern for the mothers who attend a special class at Nassau Street School. Designed for parents of kindergarteners and first graders, the class helps mothers to understand their children and to view them objectively and scientifically. Mrs. John White, 50 Scott Lane, left, chats with Miss Mildren Kaplan, Nassau Street nurse, and Mrs. Lewis Bain, 59 Cedar Lane. Dr. Jack Barden, Borough schools psychologist, and Mrs. Harold Park, 54 N. Tulane, are standing. (Staff Photo)

KNOW YOUR CHILD

Class at Nassau Street. "My Helen—she's five years old and my youngest, you know—invited me to her kindergarten program. I sat and watched her during the program. She was alert and helpful but she did not contribute anything at all."

"He didn't want to go to kindergarten that morning. Jimmy didn't. Said he was sick. I took his temperature and sure enough, he did have a little fever. But I don't think he was really sick. You see, we've just moved to town and we've made so many moves in the course of his life . . . ."

These mothers, talking freely and objectively about their children, belong to a class in child growth and development for the mothers of kindergarten and first-grade children. It is now concluding its second successful year at Nassau Street School.

The class was started in the late fall of 1957 by Dr. Jack Barden, Borough schools psychologist, and Miss Mildren Kaplan, Nassau Street nurse. Miss Kaplan became interested in child growth and development while working for her master's degree in guidance at the University of Pennsylvania. A series of conferences she attended with members of the New Jersey Department of Education gave her the idea of starting parents' classes in child development at Nassau Street school.

"I thought it would be profitable — and fun," Miss Kaplan says. It has turned out to be both and more, according to Chester Stroup, Nassau Street principal.

Under the Microscope. It is the belief of Miss Kaplan and Dr. Barden that plotting a child's growth and development has become almost a kind of science.

"Much of the guess-work has been taken out of what we can expect of children," Dr. Barden says.

In the class, a mother learns to look at her child objectively, with the eye of a scientist and not with the emotional eye of a doting parent. She is trained to do this by writing dozens of short anecdotes about things her child does and says. She writes down what a boy says when he's cross, what he does when he's happy, what he was doing when he thought nobody was watching him, what he does that is puzzling and disturbing to his mother.

During the second half of the two-hour, bi-weekly class period, one or two mothers read their anecdotes and the other mothers, Miss Kaplan and Dr. Barden comment on them.

"I see your daughter as adaptive and independent," Miss Kaplan will say, "but I think she may be trying too hard to keep up with older sister."

"These nine anecdotes reveal a clear pattern of silent strength in your child," Dr. Barden will say. "He seems exceptionally intelligent, but it's too early don't forget, to tell whether he's really superior or just growing fast."

Dr. Barden, Miss Kaplan and the mothers try to find recurring patterns of behavior in the anecdotes and, on the basis of these patterns, help a mother to find meaning in the things her child does.

"We don't draw a set of conclusions," Dr. Barden explains, "because these may not be true when the child is a year older. We want a parent to look at his child—(her) child actually; we only wish fathers could attend these classes—we want a mother to see her child apart from herself; to see him for himself alone with his potentialities and his weaknesses."

"Sharing information about your child is really a wonderful experience," one mother said. "You realize that he isn't so peculiar after all. I felt that I'd never really seen my son before I got into this class."

Information Shared. The mothers sit around a cafeteria table, sipping ten-o'clock coffee and listening thoughtfully and attentively to the lecture that occupies the first half of their two-hour session and to the anecdotes that follow.

Miss Kaplan gives the lecture each week. Dr. Barden acts as consultant and gives a lecture on intelligence in which he defines such terms as "mental age," "I.Q." and so on, outlining the various definitions of intelligence and reminding the mothers of the fluidity and variability of a young child's mental development.

Lectures cover, or at least touch on, almost every area of human behavior: the physical child, cultural factors in development, a child's reaction to his peers, the influence of sex concepts.

The class is extremely small, of necessity. All kindergarten and first-grade mothers are eligible and 25 percent of them applied for admission, but Dr. Barden and Miss Kaplan feel that ten is the maximum number. To accommodate at least a few of the other mothers, the class is given twice a year, fall and spring, but there are still many who must be left out.

The mothers are chosen carefully so that the group will be truly representative and as heterogeneous as possible. Mr. Stroup reports that attendance is high and that mothers are eager to do the homework involved in writing anecdotes and doing outside reading. They have adopted a code of ethics: no gossiping outside the classroom about what Mrs. Jones said her little boy did, and no discussion of personal problems.

Whatever benefit the mothers have derived from the class has been matched by the benefit that the school has received.

"A mother who learns about a child's development is in a better position to understand what the school is trying to do in the field of curriculum, testing and so forth," Dr. Barden says. "A parent in trouble feels freer to come in for help. She knows how to give a psychologist pertinent information that will help him to help her child. She has learned what's important and what's not. Maybe she can even extend what she has learned to her older children, so that she can be less emotional about them, too."

"We really feel guilty about being in this class," said one participating mother. "We feel that all children and parents should have the benefit of this objective approach to growing up and it doesn't seem quite right that we should have all the luck!"

NAME ANY PET

Princeton's Got It. What kind of animal do you think makes the best pet? Something small and furry? Feathered and chirpy? Or, maybe, long and slithery? You name it, and the chances are that somebody in Princeton owns one.

Dogs and cats are plentiful, of course, along with goldfish, turtles, canaries and parakeets. But this is only the beginning. Princeton pets cover the whole field, from farm animals and wild life to exotic imports.

An informal survey shows that pets currently owned by Princetonians include the following, listed alphabetically: chickens, chameleons, foreign fish, goats, guinea pigs, hamsters, horned toads, lizards, mice, monkeys, a myna bird, parrots, a peacock, pigs, pigeons, a pony, skunks and snakes. (No claim is made that this list is complete.)

A few other unusual pets were previously Princeton residents. A graduate student at Princeton University a few years ago had a coati-mundi a small furry mammal from South America. The student left the United States after receiving his degree and, since he couldn't take the coati-mundi with him, he sold it to the Mt. Airy Zoo in Lambertville. And Mr. and Mrs. Francis T. Chambers, who lived on Ewing Street before moving to Hopewell this Spring, are the owners of a small burro.

EARLY RISER: Diane Livingstone, 11, gets up at 6:30 each morning to take care of her pet Shetland pony, Blackie. She also takes care of his grooming, polishes his red saddle and bridle, and exercises him on the grounds near her home at 17 Oakland Road. (Staff Photo)

Man-Eating Fish. In addition, Kenneth J. Arnott, owner of The Pet Shop on Henderson Avenue, reports that during recent years he has sold alligators, bear cubs and even a piranha, a South American fish famous as a man-eater.

Mr. Arnott, incidentally, said he didn't consider the piranha fish dangerous in a tank. Then he added musingly, "Come to think of it, though, I haven't seen the fellow who bought that fish since!"

One of the few exotic animals popular today that has not yet been discovered in Princeton is the ocelot, an American version of the jaguar. But there's one Princetonian who, if rumor be true, may bring the town an even more interesting addition. This gentleman, who shall be nameless, says he plans to buy a seal for his swimming pool.

One of the most unusual things about these unusual pets is that their owners, in general, don't see anything odd about them. What's more, the owners seem to have an unlimited supply of patience when it comes to cleaning, feeding and otherwise taking care of their pets.

Dietrich Jenny of 5 Greenholm, for example, has a milk snake and a corn snake and doesn't think snakes are particularly extraordinary pets. "I'm sure many people must have more unusual pets than these," he said.

Mr. Jenny explained that he keeps the snakes, along with a dog, a cat, turtles and goldfish, for his son Tric, who is 3½. "My main object is to keep my son from being afraid of animals," he said. "I decided that if he knew the facts about various animals firsthand, he wouldn't be afraid of them. And the theory works, too!"

It would seem that familiarity with snakes does prevent fear of them, judging from the reactions of other snake owners. Whit Raymond, 9, and his brother Kit, 8, of Cherry Valley Road, for instance, have owned several different kinds of snakes in the past few years, from garter snakes to king snakes. Far from being afraid of their slithery pets, the boys are very fond of them and enjoy playing with them.

At the moment Kit is quite unhappy because a big corn snake he bought at the recent Princeton Country Day School Fair escaped the day after it was brought home, and he misses it. Fortunately, his mother, Mrs. Macpherson Raymond, is equally unafraid of snakes. "They're really quite good to have around," she said. "They're wonderful mouse-catchers, just as good as cats, and they don't bother the birds!"

Full House. The corn snake, if he is still around, has a great deal of animal company at the Raymonds' Dalhousie Farm. The Raymonds are sheep breeders and, in addition to all the sheep, they have several collies, a sheep dog, a goat and a pigeon, plus a peacock and a a peahen belonging, respectively, to Whit and Kit. The boys take full care of the two birds, including providing them with turkey pellets and water. But they don't find them as good company as snakes, because the birds don't like to be handled.

Diane Livingstone of 17 Oakland Road is a good example of an owner who doesn't mind putting a great deal of spare time into taking care of her pet. Diane, who is 11, gets up at 6:30 every morning to prepare food for her Shetland pony, Blackie. She also spends a good many hours currying his soot-black coat and combing his mane, as well as polishing his bright red saddle and bridle and exercising him.

"It doesn't really take so much time," said Diane. "It's just that I have to go to school, too!" Blackie, incidentally, is the proud winner of a second prize in the pet show last Fall at the Princeton Shopping Center.

Will He Talk? One of the most unusual exotic pets in Princeton is a myna bird, acquired last week by Mrs. George M. K. Baker of 82 Hartley Avenue. The myna bird, which comes from southeast Asia, is known for its ability to talk, and is supposed to be able to say whole sentences.

"I just thought it would be fun to have one," said Mrs. Baker. "I have a parakeet, but he speaks very little. I don't know whether the myna will really talk, but I'm certainly going to find out!"

Proof of the popularity of unusual pets was provided at the recent Princeton Country Day School Fair, where the pet booth did the biggest business in fair history. Animals sold at the fair, included chameleons, hamsters, horned toads and snakes, as well as chickens, goats, pigs, pigeons and snakes, plus goldfish, kittens and puppies.

"We could have sold just about twice as many of everything," said Mrs. George Brinkerhoff, chairman of the pet booth. "I think one reason was that all these animals were small — that appealed to the children."

It's Only A Snake

Not many people would relish the idea of having a snake loose in the house, but Mrs. MacPherson Raymond of Dalhousie Farm, Cherry Valley Road, is an exception. Her only concern is that her son, Kit, 8, misses his pet.

Mrs. Raymond bought a large, non-poisonous corn snake for Kit at the Princeton Country Day School Fair. Day after the snake was brought home to the Raymond farm its cage was opened by mistake and it escaped.

"I know it's still around the house somewhere," said Mrs. Raymond casually. "I've heard it moving around upstairs, but I just can't find it. I wouldn't care, because corn snakes are wonderful rodent-killers, but Kit is very disappointed."

Medical Problems. The increase in unusual pets has created some problems for Princeton veterinarians, although not as many as one might expect. A joint statement by four local doctors lists only four difficulties. The statement was issued by Dr. J. C. Blumenthal, Dr. Russell S. Edmonds, Dr. Milton Horowitz and Dr. M. J. Smith.

The four main problems in treating exotic animals, the doctors say, are 1) administering drugs — "you can't give a pill to a snake!"; 2) anticipating the individual reaction of an unusual animal to a particular drug; 3) diagnosing specific esoteric conditions not common to other animals, and, 4) handling the animal.

"At the present time," the doctors said, "local veterinarians are qualified to treat general conditions of these animals. We are always glad to have owners of these animals consult us. To us, these animals are pets, just like any other animal, and we treat them accordingly."

In the case of an unusual condition that requires specialized treatment, the doctors added they will recommend a specialist, such as a doctor at a zoo. These men, they pointed out, are trained specifically for this kind of work.

Man's Best Friend. Despite the growing popularity of unusual pets, however, it seems doubtful that any other animal will ever have the universal appeal of a dog. Dogs outnumber all other kinds of pets by a large ratio, and only dogs are so numerous that the Borough and Township require licensing.

At the PCD Fair, too, it was the puppies that were the most popular. "The children liked all the animals, but not the way they liked the puppies," reported Mrs. Drinkerhoff. "We only had 15 puppies and they were all spoken for early in the morning, even before the fair officially opened."

RESUME RESERVOIR WORK

In Stony Brook Area. Work on construction of Willow Lake, first of the nine conservation lakes scheduled to be built in the Stony Brook Watershed, has been resumed after a five-month delay. The work was delayed by Winter frosts and Spring rains.

Scheduled for completion early next month, Willow Lake will be a five-acre reservoir. It is located on Cornell Blackwell's farm, about four miles west of Princeton, near the junction of Cold Soil and Blackwell Roads. This is officially known as dam site no. 2, because it was the second site to be surveyed.

The nine lakes are part of a comprehensive long-range program for conservation of the natural resources of the 30,000-acre watershed. The program is a cooperative one between federal, state and local governments and private individuals and organizations. A total of 18 government and private organizations are involved.

First program of its kind in New Jersey, it was initiated and is being coordinated by the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association. Chief participants are the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, Mercer and Hunterdon Soil Conservation Districts, State Forestry, Fish and Game Divisons, and the Engineering Departments of Mercer and Hunterdon Counties.

DOING FIELD WORK FOR THE "Y": Members of the Board of Directors of the YMCA turned out, if not in full force at least in high spirits, Saturday morning to clear the field behind Dorothea's House. Friends of the Board appeared, too, and so did young men who are members of the newly-formed service group, "The 'Y's' Men's Club." The field, on Avalon Place between Dorothea's House and the new YMCA building, will be used this summer for baseball and a playground for "Y" summer activities. In the fall, it will be graded and re-seeded. At last Saturday's field day, the area was raked, cleared of stones and rubbish and filled in. The new field measures about 40 by 250 yards.

Help the Cold Noses

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

I write from the Sanctuary, a refuge for homeless dogs upon a hill-farm in southern Indiana. I am the staff—the one fighting woman who is trying to hold the place together. In times past, those who love dogs have been good to us, and so we ask again, bearing in mind our debt in gratitude.

We need food (of any sort) and old towels, blankets or pieces. Almost anything has an application here.

Forty-five cold noses and warm hearts salute you!

Thoughts On Dog Care.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

First of all, I want to say how much I enjoy the dogs in Princeton. They are such pleasant dogs and the way they are permitted to run gives such a delightful atmosphere, quite different from the "verboten" existing in so many towns.

But I do want to protest violently against people who permit bitches in heat to run at large. I doubt if they half realize the eventual results.

It is estimated that ten million puppies and kittens are born every hour in the U. S. The cost to taxpayers and to private philanthropies is over 50 million dollars per year. If owners cannot afford to have their females spayed, they should keep them locked-up, at certain times.

Also, if people realized how inexpensive it is to castrate young male dogs of uncertain lineage, it would cut to a minimum the number of unwanted and abused animals.

People in America are basically kind; you read in the papers almost daily of work by fire companies and citizens to rescue some unfortunate animal from a well or trapped between buildings, but there is so little realization of the tragedy of the overall picture.

I hope that everyone who sees this letter will help and co-operate.

MS Goal Reached

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

On behalf of the Board of Directors of the Central New Jersey Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, I am writing to thank you for the excellent cooperation which the TOWN TOPICS gave us in our recent MS Hope Chest Campaign in Trenton.

There is still a great deal of mystery surrounding MS. The cause and cure are unknown, and many people are still unaware of the nature of this progressively crippling disease and the disastrous effect it has on the entire family as well as the patient.

Through your help, we are able to bring knowledge of MS and the problems it presents to the residents of Princeton, whose generous response to our appeal resulted in our reaching our goal of $7,000. Of this amount, 40% has been sent to the National Multiple Sclerosis Society for research, which is the one hope of finding the cause and cure of the disease, and the balance is being retained for direct financial aid and services to MS patients in the Chapter area.

We are very grateful to you for your share in helping us to raise the funds so vitally needed.

Handmade Toys For Fete. Children attending the Princeton Hospital Fete next Saturday, June 6, will be able to choose from among hundreds of handmade toys created especially for the Fete by members of the Junior Faculty Wives Club of Princeton University. The toys, which will be sold at a Children's Toy Table in the "Lane of Shops" at Fitzpatrick Field, next to Palmer Stadium, will include stuffed animals, puppets, doll clothes and various nursery toys.

The toys have been made by a group of more than 100 members of the club under the direction of Mrs. Enoch Durbin and Mrs. Kenneth Rendall, Jr., co-chairmen. Mrs. S. T. Beza, who makes stuffed animals as a hobby, provided the patterns and supervised the making of these toys. Mrs. George Warfield was in charge of doll clothes. Prices for the various toys will begin at 25 cents.

Another feature of the Fete will be a Craft Shop Table, which will offer unusual gifts ranging in price from 50 cents to $50. The various items, from reconditioned antiques to foam rubber dog beds, have been created by a group of women under the direction of Mrs. James Barnes. All work was done in the basement workshop of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Young, 78 Stockton Street.

There's A Lot Of Us

Since the 1950 census, New Jersey has gained new residents at a faster rate than the nation as a whole.

New Jersey's population increase in the last eight years is 18.7% while the population of the country as a whole has risen only 15%. The authority is the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

As of last July, there were 5,739,800 people living in New Jersey. The official population figure in 1950 was 4,835,329.

Population growth has been greatest in suburbs and rural areas and slowest in the cities. The fastest-growing municipality in the state, according to the Department, is Washington Township in Bergen County, with a population increase of 218.79 percent.

DIAMONDS IN THE ROUGH: Grading operations have been completed on the field to the east of Palmer Stadium, shown here in a photo taken from the top tier of the big horseshoe. A freshman baseball diamond will be constructed on the site for use next spring, and another diamond and several football practice fields are projected for the future. The current diamond on Brokaw Field will be replaced by tennis courts when Princeton's new dormitory quadrangle is built, with work on Brokaw to start this summer. (Photo by Alan Richards)

SPORTS In Princeton

LACROSSE TITLE WON

Before Record Crowd. A year from now, Princeton will defend its Ivy lacrosse title — playing host to Cornell on University Field on the third Saturday in May. Lacrosse fans, whose numbers are mounting here, are hopeful that the attendance will set a Princeton record for the sport.

At Ithaca last Saturday, far and away the largest crowd ever to see an Ivy lacrosse game was on hand. Stands holding 2,000 were packed before the contest began, and another 1,000 stood two and three deep around the field. It began to rain in the second quarter, never let up — and when the close, action-filled game ended, virtually everyone was still on hand.

The 9-8 defeat that Cornell's unbeaten Ivy entry absorbed from the Tigers was a tremendous disappointment to the big crowd. Princeton has dominated the league for the past three seasons, and its victory last weekend was its 7th straight against Ivy opposition.

The Ithacans had beaten the same four teams knocked off by the Tigers, with rugged Dartmouth giving Princeton a greater scare than Cornell. The home team trailed in the opening minutes, first by 2-0 and then 4-2, but moved into a 4-4 deadlock before the first quarter ended.

Cornell Takes Lead. Persistent shooting finally gave the Red a lead, 5-4 and then 6-5. The Orange and Black took charge before the half ended, getting three quick goals to hold an 8-6 edge at the intermission.

Rain and mud dominated much of the second-half action. The third period was scoreless; Cornell controlled play during much of the closing minutes, and scored twice to the victors' lone tally, but never quite managed to draw even again.

Bob Milling's four goals paced the Princeton attack and gave him the individual title in Ivy scoring. Johnny Heyd (see "We Congratulate," page 25) and Johnny Allen each caged a pair for Ferris Thomsen's champions.

The title is the only one captured by Princeton during the academic year coming to a close. The Tigers just missed in football and basketball, losing to Dartmouth in each case in the deciding game.

TIGER NINE HOPEFUL

On Finishing Above .500. With four games left on its schedule, Princeton's baseball team hopes to top the .500 mark for the first time in two years. The Tigers were 8-12-1 a year ago, but if they take three of their last four, can finish 11-10 this spring.

Saturday's game against Fordham will start at 3 o'clock on University Field. A contest here against Colgate on June 10 will be sandwiched in between the two final meetings with Yale, one at New Haven on June 6, the other here on the 13th.

The Tigers are pegged at exactly .500 in the Eastern League standings, after topping Pennsylvania Saturday in their final game in circuit play. The Columbia contest will not be replayed, after having been rained out on May 13, since the outcome would not affect first place. This is the second year in a row that rain has prevented the Tigers from playing a full schedule.

The Penn contest would have been difficult to lose, what with the Quakers committing eight errors during the course of the afternoon. The Tigers hardly took full advantage of the visitors' generosity, however, leaving a full dozen stranded on the base paths. In the first two innings, Penn made five errors and all Princeton could produce was a lone run.

Four in the Fourth. Two more Quaker misplays aided a four-run outburst in the fourth, Captain Dick Edie's line single to left driving two of them in. A bases-loaded walk to Jack Sullivan produced another, while Edie crossed the plate following a bad pick-off throw to first by the catcher.

The visitors tied the score with a run in the third, two in the sixth and two more in the seventh.

The last pair off Herm Belz was unearned but served to send the contest into the last of the ninth deadlocked at 5-all.

Edie opened this round by getting aboard on the losers' eighth error, a bobbled grounder by Herky Rubincam, who started at first base and later switched to shortstop in a series of personnel changes engineered by Jack McCloskey, Penn coach.

Mike Ippolito walked and Carl Belz's infield out advanced both runners. Jack Sullivan was passed intentionally to fill the bases and sophomore Paul Finch was picked to pinch-hit for Bob Mydlik. His Baltimore chop bounded high over the pitcher's head and by the time Rubincam had scooped up the ball and thrown to the plate, Edie was across.

Day before the Tigers tripped Penn for Herm Belz's fifth victory in eight decisions, they had been blanked by a good-looking Delaware nine. Dave Douglas, junior lefthander, started and lost when he was the victim of a five-run third.

Joe Burns hurled well in relief, giving up only a single uncarned tally, but the Tigers could do nothing at the plate. No Princetonian got beyond second base.

OTHER SPORTS

Track Team Last. Army and Pennsylvania finished ahead of the track team in a triangular meet Saturday in Palmer Stadium, the cadets winning with 91½ points. The Quakers' total was 47. Princeton had 34½.

The Orange and Black took all four places in the javelin, but beyond that, Dick Edmunds created much ire. He ripped off a 47.6 440 (just a fifth of a second off his own varsity record) to win this event by ten yards and then ran a fine anchor leg on the victorious mile relay team. Edmunds got the baton in third place, moved quickly into second and killed off the opposition with a fine stretch run to win by ten yards again.

He'll represent Princeton in the IC4—A meet this weekend at Randalls Island. Next month, Edmunds will take part in the NCAA meet in Omaha, Nebr.

JOHNNY HEYD

Princeton Lacrosse Player

In the three years that Johnny Heyd has been playing varsity lacrosse at Princeton, no Ivy opponent has beaten the Tigers. While lacrosse is very much a team sport, some of the individual characteristics that Heyd displays on the field have undoubtedly had a highly beneficial effect on his teammates.

"In the ten years I've been at Princeton, I've never known a finer competitor than Heyd," Ferris Thomsen said of him this week. "He ranks with Reddy Finney as the best in this respect, and his keen desire to give a top performance at all times was a tremendous asset this season." Finney will be remembered as one of the last of Princeton's three sport stars, playing football, wrestling and winning All-American status in lacrosse early in the present decade.

Heyd gave the 1959 Tigers the spark without which no group of players can win a championship, regardless of ability. He was truly a "take-charge guy," moving into the thick of action when the outcome hung in the balance. Best example was his two invaluable goals in the closing minutes of the 6-5 victory over Dartmouth. Without them, a tie for first-place with Cornell would have been the best the Tigers could have achieved last weekend.

Versatile enough so that he started at both wingback and tailback on the football team, and last fall won an all-Ivy berth in the sport, Heyd took up lacrosse as a freshman in Princeton. He won a letter in each of his three seasons on the varsity and climaxed his senior year as the recipient of the Higginbotham Trophy, the highest award Princeton can bestow in the sport.

Left-handed by inclination, Heyd developed ambidextrous shooting ability this year, making him much harder for the opposition to guard. His game-winning goal against Dartmouth—coming with less than a minute left on the clock—was thrown right-handed. During the season, much of it against the toughest teams in the nation, he was credited with 14 goals and six assists for 20 valuable points.

Off his play and all-around leadership, Heyd is a clear-cut candidate for all-American honors in the sport, with selections scheduled to be announced early next month. If he makes it—and from the Princeton point of view, no one deserves it more—he'll become a minor legend as the athlete who moved into the top rank in a sport after never having played it before entering college.

the American League's only other game, the Kiwanis Club Orioles downed the Lions Club Tigers, 8-8. In other National League contests, the PAL Cardinals blanked the University Braves, 18-0; the Plainsboro Pirates defeated the Houghton Red Legs, 12-1, and the Braves, 13-12. The Cardinals beat the Giants, 9-5, and the Dodgers downed the Red Legs, 10-6.

TRYOUTS SCHEDULED

For Little League. Tryouts for boys interested in playing Little League baseball will be held from 9 a.m. to noon on June 6 and 7 at Marquand Park. The league, sponsored by the Police Youth Program, is open to boys 9 to 12. Parents of prospective players must fill out a PYP activity card, which may be obtained at Borough or Township police headquarters.

Sponsors for the league's five teams this summer will be Princeton Post 76, American Legion; Princeton Italian-American Sportsmen's Club; Princeton Fraternal Order of Eagles; Princeton Engine Company No. 3; and Princeton Engine Company No. 1. Boys who fail to qualify for a team will be "farmed out" to the league's baseball school, where they will receive training in sports skills which will enable them to qualify later in the season.

PHS SEASON NEARS END

Nine Edges Hamilton, 4-3. Princeton High School's baseball season ends this week with a game against Somerville at home on Friday. A mid-week contest with Steinert High was on the schedule Wednesday.

The Little Tigers picked up their seventh win in 11 outings by defeating Hamilton, 4-3, last Friday. Lefthander Jack Lackey withstood two late-inning Hornet rallies to nail down the PHS victory. Pitching shut-out ball until the sixth, Lackey finally yielded a three-run homer by Gary Frese, which put Hamilton within one run of the Little Tigers' four.

The Hornets loaded the bases in the seventh frame, but Lackey picked up John Bendy's slow rolling grounder to the mound and then to first to end the contest. The Blue and White tallied three runs in the second inning after Lackey and Gil Wisenburger reached base with singles.

Arnold Skaar singled to score Lackey and Wisenburger, then was forced home when Hornet hurler Joe Zarish yielded three consecutive walks. Bob Burgen scored the decisive Princton run in the fourth on a single and other one-base hits by Rip Cranston and Jack Hawkins.

Revenge against Hunterdon. The Little Tigers evened the score Monday afternoon with one of the opponents which had beaten them earlier in the season. Hunterdon Regional High, a 7-3 victor a fortnight ago, was trimmed, 5 to 1.

Bruce Sandvik was the starting and winning pitcher, handcuffing the losers without difficulty. The Blue and White led all the way when Jack Lackey get them off to a three-run lead by hitting a homer in the first with two aboard. Jack Hawkins contributed to the attack with a pair of safeties.

PHS PLANS CONCERT

Friday in School Auditorium. A concert of choral music will be presented Friday at 8 p.m. in the Princeton High School auditorium. Open to the public, it will feature the school choir and the vocal music classes, directed by Thomas Hilbish.

The choir will present "Dido and Aeneas," an opera in three acts by Henry Purcell. Susan Craig will be the accompanist at the piano, while solo parts will be sung by Jane Young, Arnold Urken, Carroll Butterworth, Julia Bowers, Patricia Brink, Nancy Dyer and Phillip Ashby. The beginning and intermediate classes will sing the "sanctus" from the B Minor Mass by Johann Bach.

MUSIC IN THE AIR

On Nassau St. This Summer. Music will fill the air along Nassau Street this summer when the Princeton Community Band starts its third season of open-air concerts. The band will give four performances on the lawn in front of Nassau Hall during June, July and August.

Bruce McKinney, a senior at Princeton University, is conductor of the band, which is actually a symphonic wind ensemble, distinguished from an orchestra by lack of a string section. Its repertoire includes works by Wagner, Mendelssohn, Bartok and Mussorgsky.

Thomas Hilbish, high school choral director, is chairman of the committee of Princeton residents directing the band's activities. Other committee members are B. E. Bergeson, Jr., Tristam B. Johnson, Mrs. Peter Werenfels and Mrs. Wilbur Young.

Musicians are now being recruited for the band, which includes high school, college and adult members. First rehearsal will be June 11. Anyone interested in participating this year should call WALnut 4-4113 or WALnut 4-5282.

Thorne's marked the opening games in the Girls' Softball League.

Betty Kostus won in relief for ETS after inheriting a 2-1 deficit at the start of the second inning. Ginny Mershon fanned a dozen batters for Town Topics and Gail Lloyd was three for three at the plate.

A nine-run fifth inning was all the Clarksville entry needed, although Thorne's rallied for five in the top of the seventh, the contest was marked by 22 hits, four of them for extra bases when the losers staged their big inning.

Games next Wednesday send Thorne's against Town Topics on '95 field and ETS against Clarksville on Bedford Field. These sites are on the University Campus, below the tennis courts.

PHS TRACKMEN TRIUMPH

Trenton Bows, 75-42. Lamont Fletcher won both hurdle events to spark the Princeton High School track team to a 75-42 triumph over Trenton High on Friday. Second and third place points proved decisive as the Princetonians scored seven firsts, only one more than the Tornadoes.

Other Little Tiger winners were Jack Copeland in the pole vault, Ridgley Applegate in the javelin, John Everson in the discus, Dick Jappin in the mile (4:59.2) and Bob Cooper in the quarter-mile. Dan Billups paced Trenton's scoring by winning the 100-yard dash in 10.3 seconds, the 220 on 22.2 and the broad jump with a leap of 21 feet, 5½ inches.

BOWLING NOTES

Shelton Clinches "A" Loop. Shelton Motors added two victories last week, for a total of 67, to clinch the second-round title in the "A" League at Princeton Recreation Center. With one week of second-round play remaining, runners-up Farr Hardward (60) and Tiger Garage (58) were mathematically eliminated from the race. Shelton will roll off against Tiger Garage, the first-half champion, on Friday night.

On the same night, National Guard and Jefferson Plumbing will clash to decide the "B" loop championship. Notable "A" League individual scores included Fred Goeke, 212; Mike Plumeri, 206; Frank Cawley, 202, and Frank Delneso, 201.

Sports In Princeton

SPORTSMEN IN FRONT

As Kahny Hurls Goose Eggs. Three straight shutouts credited to Harry Kahny have landed the Sportsmen's Club in first place as the new season in the Men's Community Softball League begins. The veteran pitcher followed his opening game whitewash job on Cenerino's A.C. with a 2-0 blanking of Sannino's last Thursday and a 5-0 victory over Pete and Mike's Tuesday evening.

Against Pete and Mike's, the Sportsmen jumped off to a 4-0 lead in the first and were never in trouble as Kahny held the losers to two hits. Joe Toto, Kahny's battery-mate, hit a solo home run in the third. Tony Freda was the losing pitcher, holding the Sportsmen to five safe blows but getting little support at the plate. Sam Scuierati of the victors contributed the game's fielding gem—a rolling catch that opened the sixth inning.

In other games, Cenerino's broke even in one-run affairs, edging Pete and Mike's, 6-5, last Thursday before bowing to Sannino's on Tuesday, 3 to 2. Lou DiMeglio picked up the victory in the latter contest when Sannino's ended a 2-all deadlock with a run in the top of the sixth.

After three games, the Sportsmen were in first place with a perfect 3-0 mark, followed by Sannino's at 2-1. Cenerino's A.C. (1-2) and the winless Pete and Mike's entry trailed. Games this Thursday send Sannino's against Pete and Mike's on Goldie Field and the Sportsmen against Cenerino's on Poe Field.

WOULD YOU?

LIKE THIS comfortable living with ideal neighbors. Well kept and easily maintained 3 bedrooms, 2 tile baths and lavatory. Living room with fireplace, dining room, compact kitchen, library and screened porch. Full basement and garage. $31,750.

LIKE THIS a faultless split level with larger than average rooms, large well equipped kitchen, 2 car garage, 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, unusual amount of storage. Lots of house at a realistic price of $32,500.

LIKE THIS — a luxury house amid beautiful trees with many silvery birch, a beautiful house, in which to live like a story-book couple, in the world's most modern practical manner. For instance take the great common sense of a heating system with 3 zones to give the exact amount of heat for every room, a complete intercom system and add to it the luxury of 5 large master bedrooms, 3 beautiful beautiful tile baths, 2 large bright servants' rooms and huge bath, suitable also for family use. We would like its fabulous comfort with its realistic operation. $87,000 including $2,000 of decoration of your choice.

LIKE THE dramatic living room with its high ceiling and beautiful lighting, the very charming dining room with its abundance of wall space and the long peaceful view from its attractive window, the gracious entrance hall, study, fine game room with cheerful fireplace, 3 bedrooms and 3 baths in this unusual country house at $42,500.

Elegant — Yet Informal
Custom Built Homes In Princeton's
Western Section
Just Minutes From Town on Princeton Pike
Mercer Road

These homes are custom built in the true sense of the word with an eye to the finite details that go to make for a truly custom home, and of course, provisions were made for complete air-conditioning. All houses are on lots of over an acre completely and individually landscaped and have oversized two-car garages. These homes are priced at close to builder's cost and well below the market.

80-Foot Ranch - (Under Construction) - Situated on a lovely high lot. Enter a large, gracious reception foyer; then see the spacious living room with a fireplace and lovely bow picture window - a mahogany panelled den with large glass sliding doors to your garden - full sized dining room and a separate breakfast room, both with picture bow windows - an extremely modern kitchen with all built in appliances - laundry room - 3 oversized bedrooms - 2½ baths - and a full basement. Priced below market $43,500.

2-Story Colonial - 4 bedrooms - 2 baths and a guest powder room - delightful living room with glass sliding doors leading to an outdoor dining patio - and a dream kitchen completely equipped to make your mundane daily chores a pleasant daily interlude. Priced to sell quickly. $44,500.

94-Foot Ranch - (Under Construction) - Situated on a corner lot - 3 large bedrooms - 2½ baths, one bath with double basin vanity - large living room with fireplace and built in bookcases - panelled library or den - dining room - separate breakfast room, both with large bay windows and a completely equipped modern kitchen - laundry room and a large basement. Nothing in the area like it at $44,500.

2-Story Southern Colonial - (Under Construction) - majestically sitting in a group of lovely old trees atop a knoll with its 2 story white columns on a 40 foot portico against a background of old brick is a picture home one must see. 4 oversized bedrooms - 2 baths and a beautifully appointed guest powder room - large living room with a fireplace - mahogany panelled library - full dining room - separate breakfast room - fully equipped kitchen with all birch cabinets and a large laundry and utility room - also a full basement. This home priced at $47,500 is probably Princeton's biggest bargain.

Open House — Saturdays and Sundays 1:30 - 5:00 P.M., or can be seen by appointment. Just 'phone New York City, Oxford 7-3646 (9 a.m. to 5 p.m.) or Princeton, Walnut 1-6592 (Eve.) or contact your own broker.

A CHARMING COLONIAL for $41,500

This attractive wood and shingle Colonial with its "New England farmhousy" look is an eye-catcher in a nice area. Off the entrance hall are den, large living room with fireplace and bookshelf wall, powder room and modern kitchen. On one side of the kitchen is a good sized dining room; on the other, a big sunny playroom—a fine family layout. Up are four nice bedrooms and two baths; down, a full dry basement. In keeping with the appeal of the house is its well-landscaped lot with trees and an uncleared woodsy area for privacy and small fry fun. At almost any price, a pleasant house; at this figure, a buy.
